REPORT OF
STRUCTURAL PEST CONTROL REGULATORY OFFICIALS MEETING BUREAU OF ENTOMOLOGY

Although it was disappointing that the majority of the members of the group were unable to attend, it was nevertheless a worthwhile meeting. Those who did attend expressed their appreciation not only for an informative meeting but also because it appears that this meeting put the organization "back on the track" to work toward the objectives for which the group was originally founded.

Ed Bushing gave a very fine talk on his subject and Stennett Heaton with his presentation of "Words and Pictures" and his running commentary thereon made a deep impression on the members from other states. This presentation showed conditions (sometimes evidence of trouble)--then the exposed damage and the completed job. On the afternoon of the first day, shortly after 3:00, Sten Heaton presented his "Art in Nature" and all present were not only greatly impressed by the results of the microphotography as to certain functional parts of the insects but also by the beauty of the design and color existing in this form of animal life.

The social hour, hosted by Neil A. Maclean Co. Inc., was a distinct success.

On the morning of the second day Ronald W. Hunt, Sr., showed and explained two of the houses used in our examinations, with instructions and forms and all present were extremely favorably impressed.

"DOWN UNDER"

"Pity the poor Termite Man
As he squats in the dark alone
And the flickering gleam of flashlight
Throw shadows of somber tone.

The opaque eyes of a long dead cat
Seem to follow him as he crawls
And the silence of a vacant house
Echoes eerily in the walls

Water from faulty plumbing
Drips on his pallid face
As he wearily inches his way along
Thru spiders gossamer lace.

He blamelessly kneels on a water dog
And it's dying human squeak
Cause rivers of perspiration
To course down his dirty cheek

He punctures his hand with a rusty nail
And blood from his finger tip drips
This calls for anti-tetanus, and
Vile words from dry parched lips

Rats with fetid breath
Fleas that carry plague
Haunt him thru his waking hours
And portend an early grave

He starts out young, upright and clean
As he wiggles and crawls thru life
But ends up as a gnome like thing
No children - kin or wife

Don't envy the small inspection fee
When his mole like day is done
But for the loving grace of God
He could have been your son."
